

Kasavubu Wins Seat In United Nations

53-24 Vote Beats Bitter Stall Fight

Ballot Climaxes
Two-week Battle
By Top Powers

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The United States and its Western allies scored a hard-won victory Tuesday night when the General Assembly voted by a wide margin to give the empty U. N. Congo seat to President Joseph Kasavubu.

The 53-24 vote with 19 abstentions marked a bitter defeat for the Soviet bloc and many Asian-African nations who fought Kasavubu's bid for a seat every step of the way.

Opponents of Kasavubu tried repeatedly to stall a decision by demands to adjourn the debate or defer any action on the credentials committee's recommendation to seat Kasavubu. All attempts were voted down.

The ballot climaxed two weeks of debate highlighted by bitter clashes between the United States and the Soviet Union. The two powers accused each other of making a cold war issue out of the Congo's plight and exploiting the African nation to promote their own interests.

The U.S.S.R. has firmly backed leftist-leaning Patrice Lumumba, deposed Congo premier, who also sent a delegation to the United Nations.

Kasavubu issued a statement expressing satisfaction over the assembly's decision to seat him. He expressed hope that his delegation could meet soon with Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and the U.N. Congo Advisory Committee to try to bring the warring factions together in his chaotic state.

The vote highlighted the wide-open split in the African bloc on the Congo.

Nine African states voted to seat the Congo president. They were Cameroon, Chad, Congo (Brazzaville), Dahomey, Gabon, Ivory Coast, Malagasy, Niger and Senegal.

Six African states voted against. They were United Arab Republic, Ghana, Guinea, Mali, Morocco and Togo. Seven others—Central African Republic, Somalia, Sudan, Tunisia, Ethiopia, Liberia, and Libya—abstained. Nigeria and Upper Volta did not vote.

The decision to seat Kasavubu received added impact when the 15-nation Asian-African conciliation mission decided just before the ballot to delay its departure for the violence-torn Congo.

Mali, one of the African states opposing Kasavubu, served notice after the vote that it was dropping out of the conciliation mission. Guinea served notice earlier that it would do the same.

The mission switched its plans after Kasavubu sent a letter to Hammarskjöld objecting to sending the conciliation group to the Congo at this time.

Delegates predicted, however, that Kasavubu would probably relax his position now that he has been seated as head of his delegation.

ORANGE, N. J. (AP)—Edith Eichler, 33, who had rare "B positive" type blood, died at Orange Memorial Hospital Tuesday while undergoing open heart surgery.

Dr. Adrian Sabety, her surgeon, said the muscle of her heart could not take the strain of the operation. The National Rare Blood Club had arranged to have 24 members donate a pint of blood each before the operation. Four members of the club waited at the hospital to donate blood if needed.

Eichmann Admits Role In Slayings

NEW YORK (AP)—Adolf Otto Eichmann, the accused slayer of six million Jews during the blood baths of Hitler's Third Reich, freely admits participation in the monstrous crime in his horror-filled personal memoirs.

"Where I was implicated in the physical annihilation of Jews," the captured Nazi war criminal said, "I admit my participation freely and without pressure."

The first installment of his memoirs appears in the current issue of Life magazine.

State House, Senate Split On Decision

Special Session To Up Their Pay Still Undecided

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Missouri House and Senate leaders were split today on whether to have a special session to increase legislative pay.

Voters approved a constitutional amendment allowing legislators to fix their own pay scale above the present $1,500 a year. But members who vote a pay boost could not benefit from it until the following session.

Last week retiring speaker Richard H. Ichord, D. Houston recommended Gov. James T. Blair call an immediate special session so the 1961 lawmakers, just elected, could get bigger paychecks.

But Tuesday Sen. Floyd R. Gibson, D-Kansas City, president pro tem of the Senate and acting governor in Blair's absence called it against such a plan. He said the legislators who proposed the amendment and the voters who approved it never intended such a maneuver.

Besides, he said, such a session would cost $50,000 to $60,000. Blair is vacationing in South America. He said he would decide the question on his return next week.

It May Help

With that new weather satellite we may get some forewarning on what's in store for us weather-wise.

Fair and cool tonight; Thursday increasing cloudiness and a little warmer. Low tonight 30-35; high Thursday in upper 50s.

The temperature Wednesday was 25 at 7 a.m. and 48 at 1 p.m. Low Tuesday night was 25.

The temperature one year ago today was, high 62; low 36; two years ago, high 70; low 45; three years ago, high 49; low 23.

Lake of Ozarks stage: 56.0 feet; 4.0 below full reservoir; no change.

It Costs More to Retire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government estimated today it takes $220 to $280 monthly to support a retired couple aged 65 or more on a modest but adequate urban living level.

Budget costs for such couples in 20 cities surveyed by the Labor Department's statistics bureau ranged from $2,641 in Houston to $3,366 in Chicago for the specific living standard on which the study was based.

The bureau described it as "not a luxurious level, but one adequate to provide more than the basic essentials of consumption."

The budget cost estimates compare with average Social Security payments of about $125 a month to couples over 65.

Officials emphasized that Social Security never was intended to supply more than minimum living cost protection. A more than subsistence living level generally presumes some outside income such as private pensions or yield from investments.

At one point, Eichmann declared: "At heart I am a very sensitive man."

At another point, in relating how he watched one mass execution, he made this statement: "I was reflecting about the meaning of life in general."

Then he reports details of the first mass execution of Jews he watched at Minsk—an episode in which 5,000 men, women and children were slain by the Nazis as a part of Hitler's scheme to liquidate all Jews.

The victims in the Minsk murders walked in groups to a pit, Eichmann said. "They were not driven," he said—and then they jumped in.

Nazi slayers then riddled the helpless victims with rifle and machinegun fire.

Eichmann gave an account of a tour he made of the Auschwitz death camp under the personal supervision of Rudolf Hoess, its commander.

"At the end he took me to a grave where the gassed Jews lay piled on a strong iron grill. Hoess' men poured some inflammable liquid over them and set them on fire."

Eichmann insisted that he is not anti-Semitic.

He had no wish, he said, to harm "the individual Jew personally."

He was just "politically opposed to Jews because they were stealing the breath of life from us."

New Bridges To Be Built Near Sedalia

A contract for the installation of two bridge structures along with necessary grading and gravel or crushed stone surfacing of approaches adjacent thereto now has been awarded by the State Highway Commission to Howard Construction Co., Sedalia. The work will cost about $33,376 and totals about 0.7 mile in length.

The project is in two separated sections between U. S. Route 65, north of Sedalia, and Route N. The contract calls for the installation of a triple 12 by 10-foot concrete box culvert over Greer Branch and a double 12 by 8-foot like structure over a Branch of Health's Creek.

Construction will be carried forward under the supervision of the department's District 4 office at Kansas City, where Robert N. Hunter is the district engineer. O. B. Ayers, district construction engineer, will direct the work with B. A. Estabrooks of Sedalia as the resident engineer in active charge.

The contractor has been notified that work on the project may begin on or about Dec. 5.

This is one of 25 counties in the state on which the Missouri State Highway Commission has completed contracts for work on 109.9 miles of the state's highways costing $11,883,889 under bids received by the department October 27.

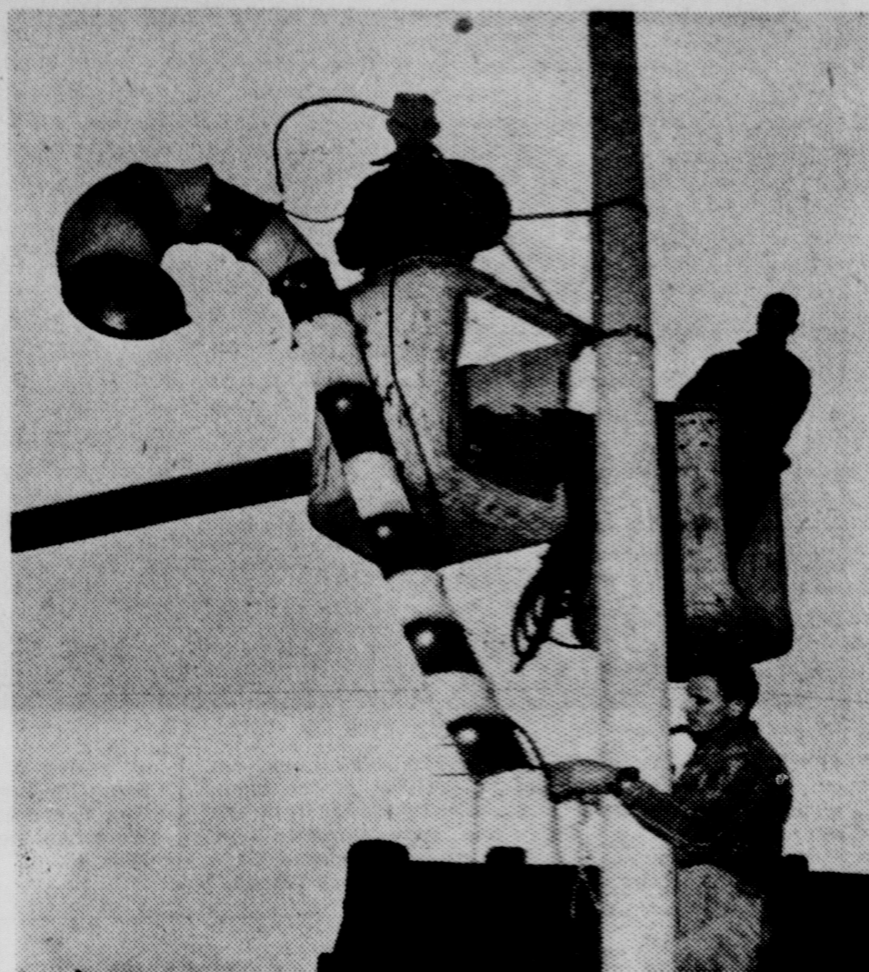

The Labor Department old folks budget is more than minimum and less than luxury. For example, its food cost calculations are a combination of low and moderate-cost eating plans. It contemplates TV set ownership, but assumes most elderly couples will use public transportation.

The budget is described as representing "a level of living which provides the goods and services necessary for a healthful, self-respecting mode of living, and allows normal participation in community life according to standards prevailing in large cities or their suburbs in the United States."

The survey, based on data collected a year ago, is just being made public.

The cost of food-beverages and rent-heat utilities each runs close to 30 per cent of total budget costs—with "other goods and services" accounting for the remainder.

Included in the latter category are transportation, clothing,

Hard Bargaining Indicated

Call Coexistence Factor to Policy

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union sharply informed Red China today that the Kremlin's views on peaceful coexistence remain the controlling factor of Communist world policy.

The tough rejoinder to Premier Khrushchev's critics in the world Communist leadership was published in Pravda. It indicated stubborn debate and the toughest sort of bargaining has been going on over the past two weeks at a world Communist summit meeting in Moscow.

Although some sort of compromise may be worked out to present to the outside world as a show of Soviet-Chinese unity, there seemed little doubt the Soviets were telling Peiping that Moscow intends to continue Khrushchev's policies. These are keyed to his demands for banishment of nuclear weapons, disarmament and what Moscow calls "peaceful coexistence."

Only two days ago the official People's Daily of Peiping, in an evident attack on Soviet Premier Khrushchev's theories of peaceful coexistence and the possibility that World War III may not be inevitable, declared it was an illusion to think communism can get along with imperialism.

Peiping, in the role of standpat revolutionism, called for revolutionary movements in underdeveloped countries. It urged, however, in a seeming mood for compromise, that Communists "turn to the possibility of averting world war into a reality."

The Pravda article also declared that banishing of nuclear weapons still was a controlling principle in Soviet policy.

On Short-hop Service In Four States

Cities, Chambers, Airlines Protesting a CAB Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two airlines, 10 cities and their Chambers of Commerce fired a mass of protests at the Civil Aeronautics Board Tuesday against its decision on short-hop air services in Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

The main attack was on the CAB's proposal to take several flights away from Ozark Airlines of St. Louis and forward them, somewhat revised, to Central Airlines of Fort Worth.

The protesting cities included St. Louis, Joplin, Columbia and Jefferson City in Missouri; Manhattan and Salina in Kansas; Little Rock, Jonesboro and Harrison in Arkansas; and Memphis.

Ozark and Trans-Texas Airways filed petitions asking the CAB to reconsider.

Here is what some of the protesting cities and Chambers of Commerce told the CAB:

Columbia — The CAB erred in deleting Ozark service from St. Louis to Springfield and Joplin, some of it by way of Jefferson City and Columbia. It erred in giving Central a St. Louis-Tulsa route, by way of Springfield, Joplin and Ft. Leonard Wood, without

Two Men Arrested In Cheyenne For Warrensburg Robbery

Warrants for the arrest of Francis Marion Cooper and Quentin Moore on charges of armed robbery were mailed from Warrensburg Monday to Cheyenne, Wyo., where the pair is being held in the Laramie County jail.

Cooper and Moore have been identified from the photographs by Charles Connors as two of the persons who robbed his business, Bill's Place, of $60 two weeks ago. Deputy Sheriff Frank Collins said the two are being held in Wyoming on charges against them in that state.

Cooper was formerly a resident of Knob Noster.

The pair had been arrested in Denver, Colo., last week and were held for the Wyoming police where they had previously escaped from jail.

For Annual Celebration

Americans Await Thanksgiving Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Millions of Americans will celebrate Thanksgiving Thursday with church rites, special holiday observances, traditional turkey dinners, and college and professional football games.

For most of the country the weather will be fair and mild, with many sections basking in Indian summer temperatures.

Many city dwellers plan to go elsewhere for the holiday and airline, bus and train travel is expected to be extremely heavy—particularly to Florida and Caribbean vacation spots.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower will observe the last Thanksgiving of his administration with a quiet turkey dinner at the White House. The President's son, John, and his family, who usually join in the family party, will have their own turkey dinner at Gettysburg, Pa.

President-elect John F. Kennedy also will be in Washington to have Thanksgiving dinner with his wife and daughter Caroline. Caroline will be 3 Sunday but the celebration of her birthday is being moved up so her father can take part. Kennedy plans to fly back to his Palm Beach, Fla., vacation-work headquarters Thursday night.

For the 2,502,145 men and women in Uncle Sam's armed forces there will be plenty of turkey—nearly a pound per person—and the usual trimmings. The Army Air Force menu, for example, includes shrimp cocktail, roast turkey with giblet gravy, bread dressing and cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes, orange glazed sweet potatoes, buttered peas, relishes, pumpkin and mince pie and fruit cake, fruits, dates, candy and nuts.

North Korea Wants To Discuss Trade

TOKYO — Communist North Korea today proposed a meeting of representatives of North and South Korea to discuss trade and economic cooperation as a step toward eventual unification of the divided country.

The townspeople of Plymouth, Mass., will celebrate the Thanksgiving, will celebrate the holiday with appropriate ceremonies. The high point is re-enactment of the procession of Pilgrims from a spot near the graves of those who died in the first rugged winter of 1620-21 to the First Church for a memorial service. Participants will be garbed in authentic costumes.

In New York City, the annual Macy's parade with its giant balloons, Santa Claus, actress Shirley Jones, comedian Joe E. Brown and child star Lori Martin, is expected to attract thousands.

Foil Shower Results In Bright Light

Dropped by Jet Planes in Radar Reception Test

By the Associated Press

A huge, luminous sight in the sky over much of the Midwest and East today was a shower of tin foil dropped by jet aircraft in a radar reception test. Aviation and weather experts agreed on that.

The traffic control center of Detroit's Metropolitan Airport and the Detroit Weather Bureau said it was this foil falling from more than 25,000 feet through rays of the early morning sun over Southeastern Michigan that excited thousands.

Calls flooded newspaper and police offices after a mysterious glow was sighted between 6:15 and 6:30 a.m.

Some viewers thought it was caused by a rocket, others a satellite or flying saucer. All agreed that it was exceptionally bright.

Observers in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and New York also reported seeing the mysterious sight in the skies.

Keith Muir, assistant chief of Detroit's air control center, said the foil was dropped by jet planes on a test of its radar jamming properties.

American and British planes used tin foil as a jammer of German radar in World War II.

Muir's men had advance notice of the foil drop. He said the Air Force carries on such experiments several times a month "for practice and to check the accuracy of local radar reception."

The glow in the sky—some persons said it had a "flaming tail"—aroused all sorts of conjecture.

The satellite Tiros II, man-made weather moon, was launched from Cape Canaveral at 6:13 a.m. today.

However, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Washington said it was impossible for Tiros II to have been the mysterious object.

Still others thought the object might have been a research balloon which was launched before dawn from Sioux Falls, S.D.

Weatherman Vehicle Is First for US

TV Camera Sends Back Photographs To Weathermen

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The United States hurled a robot weatherman into space orbit today and quickly started getting back cloud pictures which scientists hoped to use in actual weather forecasts.

The camera-carrying satellite—Tiros II—was rocketed upward at 6:13 a.m. from the missile test center at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

Some two hours later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced it achieved successful orbit very close to the planned height of 400 miles.

Then in another two hours, NASA reported that pictures had been received at the Ft. Monmouth, N.J., station of the Army Signal Corps from the smaller of the two television cameras aboard.

Dr. Morris Tepper, chief of the space agency's meteorological satellites, told a news conference in Washington that pictures had not yet been received from the second camera but it was expected they would be received during a subsequent pass around the earth.

Tepper said the pictures already received had come in just shortly before the news conference began at 10:30 a.m.

The scientist said they were being developed at Ft. Monmouth and would be sent immediately to Washington.

Tepper declared that today marked a "very happy occasion" for NASA.

He said the first look at the orbit and other characteristics of the new "weather eye" was "very good."

Tiros II was carried upward on the nose of a 92-foot Thor-Delta rocket.

Two hours later the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that the satellite was in orbit.

A NASA statement said: "Initial calculations show a perigee of 415 statute miles and apogee of 435 miles. The orbital period is 98 minutes."

This is very close to the orbit sought.

The variation of only 20 miles between the near point and the far point of the orbit indicated that the satellite is in the most nearly circular orbit of any satellite yet launched.

The remarkably regular orbit also would indicate a relatively long life for the satellite.

Two television cameras in the satellite were expected to start sending back photos of cloud cover about 8:30 a.m. Weathermen planned to use them in preparation of actual forecasts.

Sorosis Speaker Describes Various Hearing Problems

Dr. June Miller, head of the Hearing and Speech Department, University of Kansas, was the speaker at Sorosis Monday afternoon, taking for her subject: "Children and Adult Hearing Problems."

Dr. Miller stated that her talk would include hearing problems from the cradle to the grave. There are various causes for deafness, she explained. Sometimes it is caked wax in the ear that blocks the hearing. Sometimes it is infection. Sometimes it is the nerve. There are all kinds of problems. If it is nerves it could be caused from diseases of certain kinds in children and adults.

In the pre-school age it is found that only two per cent of loss of hearing is from disease. It usually is at the time of birth, or before.

Children are deaf from a wide variety of reasons, that is why they can't talk. It used to be, the speaker said, that hearing tests were not given until the child was six years old.

Now the tests are given, she said, to see how children respond to noise under one year. Between birth and five days they are giving the test of the sucking sound and the light clap of the hands. "Time to eat," they are told and are taken to their mother to be fed. If, after three weeks, they don't react, there is something wrong.

The next test is the putting on the cap of the bottle, or the rumpling of facial tissue. After five months they will scoot over toward the sound. At seven months the test is with a china cup and silver spoon. At nine months they will look around at a sound.

There is something wrong if at nine months he responds like a five months old baby.

Father's Role Topic of Talk At PTA Meet

"Father's Role and His Child," was the subject of a talk given by T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools, at Dad's Night Broadway PTA meeting held Friday. He also told of the various phases of child behavior. The speaker was introduced by Ernest Swearingin.

John Rissler presided over the meeting and the devotion was given by the Rev. Roy B. Strubling. The minutes of the October meeting were read by Chester Eding and the treasurer's report was given by Lloyd Knox.

Mrs. Frank Sellers, Broadway PTA president, gave her report on the convention in Kansas City, and Mrs. Harley Sanford, first vice-president, who also attended the convention, gave her report.

The Rev. Walter Niles led the singing with Mrs. Carl Schrader at the piano.

Room count was taken by Dr. Gough with awards going to the room taught by Mrs. Marion Keens downstairs and the room taught by Mrs. Rosemary Coxon upstairs.

Following the meeting open house was held so that parents could visit their children's rooms where there were displays of their work.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria following the open house to the large crowd attending.

Up until about 12 years ago they used to say send him to a school when he is six, Dr. Miller said. But now they have found that he needs the auditory training program. It has been found that starting early is a great benefit to the deaf child.

Many older people, and she said that the hearing of anybody over 30 starts down, may not be able to use a hearing aid because it amplifies the sound.

Many times you hear people say of an older person who has a hearing problem: "She can't hear you when you want her to hear, but if there is something you don't want her to hear, she hears it."

That is perfectly true, Dr. Miller said. They cannot hear the high pitch of loud talk but they can hear the lower tones. Make your voice deep down, she said, if you want them to hear you. Don't scream at them. That is why there are so many hearing aids put away in drawers. The tone is high, and the aid must fit the needs of the person.

In school age children five per cent have some kind of hearing problem, some can be cured and some cannot.

In trying to teach a child who cannot hear they must be taught the different meaning of words. There are 115 meanings for the word run. Among them is to run, like run and play; to run for election; the automobile runs; the creeping vine runs; water runs, and on and on.

The child is taught to read lips if given a well trained teacher. Dr. Miller stated there is a terrific need for trained teachers. Opportunities for young people in this field are unlimited.

An early start with a team of specialists with the cooperation of the parents can help the child which needs all kinds of programs. To help people who cannot hear, open the mouth well and form the words with the lips, she said. Talk at normal rate and complete sentences.

The first things that a child with a hearing defect will pick up is "shut up" and "Santa Claus," because they are easy to understand.

Most of the hard of hearing people want to be self sufficient and if anybody should hand you a card asking for money because they are deaf, write them a note saying: "Go to the National Organization for the Deaf — they will help you," Dr. Miller said.

"Just bend over a little more backwards, she urged, to help those who are deaf, because if it happened to us we would certainly be upset."

Mrs. Harold Anderson, civics chairman, presented the speaker. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. James E. McNeil, president.

Mrs. G. G. Hopkins announced that the next meeting will be on Dec. 5, at which time Mrs. James W. Arnold, Kansas City, former resident of Afghanistan, will be the speaker.

PTA Meet Centers On Book Week

The entire meeting of Mark Twain PTA Thursday night was devoted to Book Week. Since the boys and girls at Mark Twain were having a Book Fair Thursday and Friday it was decided to invite parents.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Claude Lambirth, president, and the devotion was given by Mrs. Harry Wahrenbrock.

Due to the large crowd in attendance Mrs. Mary Faulkner, music instructor, decided to use only twelve of the fifth graders in the musical part of the program. Dressed in red, white and blue the boys and girls sang "Yankee Doodle," and "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy."

Mrs. Robert MacDonald, Book Fair chairman, was introduced and told about the fair. The PTA sponsors this fair mainly to show both children and parents the wonderful books available and tries to encourage more family reading. All proceeds will be used to buy additional books for the school library, she said. She also called attention to the clever posters all around the auditorium made by Mrs. Irene Kappleman's art classes.

Miss Ruth Burford, school librarian, with the help of Church Stanley, Mary Warren, Candy Wells, David Arnall, Jill Ulmer, Kathryn Lyles, Mrs. Bill Lyles and Mrs. Claude Lambirth, then presented a skit about Book Week and how much help children received by using the library.

A short business meeting was held and the following announcements made: Council meeting, Dec. 7, at 1:30 p.m. at the First Baptist Church; Parent and Family Life, Dec. 14; Teachers' Dinner changed to March 21.

The membership drive ended with 420 members. Mrs. Evelyn Rabourn's room downstairs and Miss Ruth Burford's room upstairs won the membership awards. Both rooms used their prize money to purchase books at the fair.

Time to Blow the Whistle

The nation as a whole certainly can't care much, if it even knows about, the long and somewhat tedious controversy between New York's police commissioner Stephen Kennedy and members of his force. The battle concerns his ban on the officers holding outside jobs.

But the country can care a very great deal about some of the moral issues that have come up in the course of this dispute. They are quite revealing of current day attitudes.

For one thing, angry policemen decided that one effective way to retaliate against the commissioner's edict was to start slapping more tickets on motorists' cars for parking and traffic violations. They figured the citizens would rise up in protest and embarrass the commissioner.

Consider what's involved in that. It means that the policemen ordinarily do not scrupulously enforce the traffic laws of the country's biggest city, notorious for its high accident insurance rates. They were able to issue thousands of extra tickets without unfairly penalizing more than a few people.

Worse even than this revelation of slipshod enforcement was the automatic assumption of the police that the citizenry would complain against the proper carrying out of the law.

Worse still was the fact that there were indeed protests when the avalanche of tickets descended. What the complainants seemed to be saying was: "How dare you enforce the law against me?"

New Yorkers did have this one legitimate gripe: The officers had no right to use them as pawns in their strictly selfish dispute with the police chief.

Law enforcement should be thorough, constant, and even-handed. It should not be lax for some and stiff for others, nor severe part of the time and soft the rest. It should not be turned on and off to suit the personal work demands of policemen.

Like most U.S. communities in the last two decades, New York has been greatly troubled by mounting crime rates. It is not likely to deal effectively with the problem so long as its law enforcement is advertised as a thing of the officer's whim.

And the authorities will find citizens less ready to complain over enforcement when they have learned there is no escape from it.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Nixon Disapproves Election Probes

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — When Attorney General Bill Rogers went to see Vice President Nixon in Miami it was for more than Florida sunshine. He gave Nixon a plan to reverse the election of John F. Kennedy and make his close friend President of the United States.

Specifically Rogers asked Nixon whether he should impanel grand juries in the key electoral states of Illinois, Texas, New Jersey and Missouri to investigate alleged vote frauds.

On top of this, Rogers would bring an injunction against members of the electoral college to prevent them from casting their ballots for President until after the grand jury probes were completed. The Attorney General thought that he would be able to get a Federal Court to grant this injunction, but he wanted Nixon's OK before he proceeded.

The Vice President replied that the decision was not up to him; he was not Attorney General of the United States.

But he cautioned Rogers regarding the effect on American prestige if President-elect Kennedy was barred from office because of election frauds. If the United States reversed its election by an investigation which advertised to the world that our elections were dishonest, Nixon warned, it would really send U. S. prestige to a new low.

In the end, however, the Vice President left it up to Attorney General Rogers as to whether he should proceed with the grand jury probes.

Election-Went-Round

Inside reason why Sammy Davis, the Negro entertainer, and May Britt, Swedish actress, originally postponed their wedding was to save Senator Kennedy possible embarrassment on the eve of the election. Kennedy's brother-in-law, Peter Lawford, is a close friend of Sammy Davis, and it was feared this Negro-white marriage might cause bad reaction with southern voters — even though neither Kennedy nor Lawford had anything to do with it.

Ezra Taft Benson, a good Mormon, doesn't drink coffee, so doesn't believe in coffee breaks. But he does believe in cranberry-juice breaks, and is doing everything possible to encourage them in order to get the cranberry business back on its feet. Here is what's happening to Ike's White House staff after Jan. 20: Gen. "Slick" Parsons will retire in Florida. Gerald Morgan, counsel to Ike, will go back to his law practice in Washington. So will appointments secretary Tom Stevens. Jim Hagerty becomes vice president of the American Broadcasting Company. Jack Anderson will go back to his fruit farm in California. Other staff members are looking for cushy jobs around Washington.

Birds Jeopardize Airports

Birds have become such a problem around airports that the Federal Aviation Agency has allocated $100,000 to the Interior Department's fish and wildlife service to find ways and means of keeping them away.

This is not a happy job for the fish and wildlife service, because it was established for the specific purpose of protecting and preserving birds. It operates bird refuges all over the United States. However, the death of 62 persons in Boston because Starlings got in the intakes of an Electra has forced Federal Aviation authorities to worry about birds as never before.

The trouble is most of the nation's airports have been located in areas which birds and other wildlife love. Municipal airports usually pick cheap, low swampy lands where take-offs and landings can be over water, thus cutting down the danger to local residences.

Birds love these areas, also the sun-warmed cement runways on chilly autumn days. Seagulls come into airports to escape ocean storms.

Wildlife scientists have already made a number of suggestions. Idlewild Airport was told to clean out the wax myrtle shrubs which had been planted between the runways to cut down on wind, but which are the favorite food of the tree swallow.

Boston has been told to destroy its tall weeds and seeds — roosting magnets for a number of birds; to eliminate the open-face dumps nearby where seagulls love to free load, and to fill in the airport ponds. Estimates are that such a fill-in will cost over a million dollars, but the bird problem can be solved only by making our airports less attractive to birds.

One of the most promising possibilities is that of using sound to scare birds away. Ultrasonic and electronic devices can be used which man doesn't hear but birds do. And it just isn't pleasant.

However, wildlife scientists say there is no one answer. We have to use a whole bagful of tricks. There are so many diverse species of birds that the problem is difficult.

Guest Editorial

MEXICO LEDGER: Let's Get Modern. Eliminate Electoral College. — In the recent Presidential election, we the citizens did not really vote for the Presidential candidates and Vice-Presidential candidates of our choice, but for people we never even heard of, who, as members of the electoral college are to cast their ballots for the Presidential nominees.

The electoral college is an archaic institution as old as this country itself. It has been attacked from various directions for the past 150 years.

It actually distorts. It has elected on several occasions a candidate who actually drew fewer votes than his opponent. It does not safeguard the rights of the voter — but that seems to make little difference. The members of the electoral college who cast their ballots are not bound by the Constitution to vote for any man whose name was on the ballot or voting machine.

It was in 1948 in the Democratic election in the state of Tennessee, that a month after the balloting one of the twelve members of the electoral college refused to vote for Harry S. Truman. The Missourian had carried the state. Instead Preston Parks, a small town attorney voted for Gov. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, a Dixiecrat who had run on a state's rights ticket. The other eleven voted as the election in Tennessee indicated for Mr. Truman. There are other instances of defection by electors from their expected political duty, but none of them have confounded yet the public majority.

Politics, as has so often been said, makes strange bedfellows and the electoral college contributes to this.

We understand a bill is to be introduced in the coming congress to eliminate the electoral college and in the future name the President on the basis of the popular vote. After all, this seems to us to be the real democratic procedure in such an important matter.

Thought For Today

You said, Woe is me! For the Lord has added sorrow to my pain; I am weary with my groaning, and I find no rest.

—Jeremiah 45:3.

It is the easiest thing in the world to obey God when He commands us to do what we like, and to trust Him when the path is all sunshine. The real victory of faith is to trust God in the dark and through the dark.—Theodore L. Cuyler.

The Gold Strain On US Economics

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

U. S. troubles with the drain on its gold and dollar resources could create an atmosphere of apprehension among America's friends—and satisfaction for the Communists.

Unless the United States finds means of correcting the situation, the squeeze in which it finds itself conceivably could accomplish for the Communists some of the things they have been unable to do themselves.

The situation could create embarrassment for America's friends. It could raise worry about the health of the North Atlantic Alliance. It could arouse uneasiness about the future of U. S. aid programs for underdeveloped countries.

We are spending, investing or giving away abroad more than we take in from foreign spending and investments. This is called an "unfavorable balance of international payments." The nagging question arises: How long can U. S. economic strength withstand the strain of vast investment in a global cold war contest?

European business circles seem confident of the soundness of the U. S. economy. Actually, U. S. exports in the fiscal year ended this summer exceeded imports by a robust margin.

But the deficit comes from spending for military, economic and technical aid, maintenance of troops and bases, U. S. travelers' expenditures, short-term investments in things like the West European construction boom and other U. S. private capital investment. Since 1958, the over-all deficit has been well in excess of $3 billion annually.

To stem some of the dollar outflow, President Eisenhower ordered a reduction in the number of families of U. S. servicemen overseas. Already this has brought guarded European speculation about future unity of the Atlantic Alliance. How long, some Europeans ask, will the next U. S. administration be able to withstand pressure to bring home American troops, too?

There are other haunting questions. Will U. S. aid to underdeveloped nations be cut? Will there be new U. S. restrictions on imports? Will U. S. aid now take on a frankly political character, pinpointed—as Soviet programs are—to areas where it will do the most good the soonest?

The Russians, exuding satisfaction, openly boast that they hope to undermine world confidence in the dollar. They speak hopefully of an imminent "general crisis of capitalism."

Soviet Finance Minister Vasily Garbuzov in a Pravda article discussing the recent ruble revaluation laid all U. S. monetary problems to military spending and "the arms race," which he said would undermine Western currencies while the ruble's prestige would soar.

The Soviet ruble revaluation, in fact, reflects Moscow's own troubles, indicating that even the planned Soviet economy suffers from inflation.

But the fact that Moscow has its own fiscal troubles is little solace for Americans facing a complex international payments situation which could have lasting adverse impact on U. S. cold war efforts.

The situation, say experts in such complicated affairs, simply must be corrected, to guarantee future confidence abroad in the dollar's value.

Psychotherapy Aims At Cause, Cure of Anxieties

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

Unlike symptomatic treatment, psychotherapy aims to discover and then remedy the causes for disorders in our conduct, emotional upsets, personality defects and neuroses.

But psychotherapy, to be effective, is both time-consuming and costly. In the case of psychoanalysis, the most searching form of intensive psychotherapy, the patient may be required to spend an hour a session with the analyst every weekday for months and even years.

On this account, the conscientious analyst can care for no more than a handful of patients each year. And, even if his hourly fee to the individual patient is relatively modest, considering the length and hardships of his training program, the total cost of a complete analysis is prohibitive to all but those with high income.

Furthermore, a recent "research" published in a leading journal of psychiatry, imposes an additional limitation that has never before been given consideration in any form of medical treatment with which I am familiar. Persons of a "lower class level," the authors write, are unlikely candidates for "insight psychotherapy."

Applicants of the "lower class," the article goes on to say, are of lower intelligence and have a limited educational background. On these counts, they cannot understand the nature and objectives of treatment. Hence, they lack a desire for psychotherapy. Well now!

What form of treatment then is available to those of us who are ineligible for "intensive psychotherapy" because of considerations of economics or "class"?

Reliable surveys indicate that one of us in each group of 10 will require some type of formal psychotherapy at some time in the course of our lives. At any given time, therefore, the case load for the nation might approximate a million children, women and men!

To care for this vast army of patients, we have fewer than 6,000 accredited specialists in neurology and psychiatry. If it were possible to make an even division of the calculated case load, each specialist would have the impossible assignment of caring for almost 200 patients.

But the distribution of our specialists is anything but equitable. With few exceptions, they congregate in the largest of our metropolitan communities. For example, Greater Los Angeles (including Beverly Hills and Hollywood) has a larger population of accredited neurologists and psychiatrists than the combined total of those who practice in Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North and South Dakota and Wyoming.

Can it be, as the "research" suggests, that our fellow-countrymen in these states are of a lower class? Or that they lack a desire for psychotherapy?

Or, conversely, is it that big city victims of this "Age of Anxiety" (such as those who make up the motion picture colony, for example) are of a higher cultural and educational level than the rest of us and hence more desirous of getting rid of their anxieties, tensions, depressions and the like?

Democrat Pick-ups

TWO WOMEN were going fishing one day and they wanted some minnows for bait. Passing a place that had a sign "Minnows—25c a dozen," they stopped to get some. They asked for three dozen minnows.

When the man started to get the minnows he said: "Better take four dozen—they are four dozen for a dollar today."

Being women this had the ring of a bargain to it—they didn't really want the other dozen minnows but they couldn't let a bargain go by, and so they took the four dozen, paid their dollar and went on. They had gone several miles before it dawned on one of them that not only fish bite on minnows—they did, too. They simply paid the regular price for their minnows—25 cents a dozen.

The Mature Parent

It's Cruel to Mislead Child On Others' Interest in Him

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence

Because John didn't remember his Uncle Fred and Aunt Gert, he was delighted to hear that they were coming for Sunday dinner. To him the titles "uncle" and "aunt" had aroused an expectation of special grown-up interest in him. So he was both surprised and disappointed by their lack of it.

Arriving, Aunt Gert said he had a look of his father's family about his eyes and Uncle Fred said, "My, you'll soon be big enough to go to school." And that was that.

Only after a hearty dinner of roast beef and pumpkin pie did Uncle Fred grow more expansive. Then, asking Steven if he liked lollipops, he took 50 cents out of his pocket and gave it to him. Aunt Gert said:

"For heaven's sake, Fred, if you want to give the child money, give him $5 to put in his bank. You're teaching him to save money, aren't you, Rhoda?"

Steven's mother said she was. Under her guidance, Steven relinquished the 50 cents, folded Uncle Fred's $5 bill and poked it through the slot of his large pink plaster piggy bank.

Later, preparing for bed, he said to his mother, "I don't like Aunt Gert."

"Sh-sh," she said. "That is not nice. She likes you very much."

Now in terms of Steven's future welfare this attempt to conceal the truth of Aunt Gert's disinterest in him could become as wasteful of his energies as though mommy had told him he could expect stones to turn into chocolate cakes.

What she did was to tell Steven that his own awareness of another person's disinterest in him was unreliable and that he could expect affection from it.

I hope she won't continue to feed him this lie. If she does, Steven's ability to withdraw expectations from people who can't feel interest in him will be impaired.

Hoping to reach that interest in him which mommy has told him disinterested people possess, he will have to pursue little boys and girls in school who have made it clear that they don't want him around. He will have to believe in the good will of employers who don't have it to give him. He may become painfully involved with girls who will exploit his hope of affection that they do not feel.

We tell this kind of lie to children, not because we want to spare them the hurt of our relatives' disinterest in them but because we can't accept their disinterest in us.

Ruth Millett Says

Kind Word for Suburbia-- A New Target for 'Experts'

Parents, it often seems, just can't win for losing. No matter how hard we try to do what is right and best for our children, the "experts" get busy and start finding fault.

Now they are throwing rocks through the picture windows of suburbia. If you want to know what's wrong with suburbia pick up almost any magazine on the newsstands.

Look through the picture windows with the experts and all you see is disenchantment. Pop, worn out by commuting and trying to meet the monthly bills, is a grouchy who is only a "phantom father" to his children.

Mom, under constant pressure to keep up with the Joneses, is frustrated and insecure.

The children, overprotected and overindulged, and associating only with children whose parents are in about the same financial bracket as their own, are growing up with a false idea of what life is really like.

In short, they are little snobs, brought up under such hot-house conditions that they will probably never be able to face up to hardships or disappointments or do battle against adversity.

Now that millions of American families have finally realized their dream of owning (or rather paying on) a home in the suburbs that's the picture the "experts" are painting.

The big question is, what are we parents supposed to do? Crowd back into the cities so that our children can have the broadening experience of playing in the streets, dodging switch blade knives and learning first hand that everybody doesn't make as much money as daddy does?

Or should our "phantom fathers" give up their city jobs and their commuting and buy a little acreage in the country so that their children will have chores to do, will be toughened up by walking miles to school, and so that they can learn responsibility by working beside their fathers in the field?

Obviously, we can't pick up and leave the suburbs — even if we wanted to, which most of us don't. So what's the use of trying to make us feel guilty about following the American dream of trying to give our children what parents naturally want for their children—a little bit easier life than they had, better educational opportunities, and a little more protection during their growing years?

With just a little common sense, we suburban parents can have just as happy homes and bring up just as fine a generation of young people as parents anywhere have ever been able to do.

Life in suburbia isn't perfect. But it's not the sterile, conformity-ridden existence that the experts are trying to paint it, either ... not behind most picture windows.

FDA Action Bans Use Of Food Color

WASHINGTON (AP) — A red food coloring used for maraschino cherries and the casings of some frankfurters has been banned pending further tests of its safety.

The Food and Drug Administration announced the ban Tuesday night, saying more than a year of experiments with dogs and rats have shown the color "produces liver damage in test animals and no safe use level has been established."

No effort will be made, however, to remove from the market food-stuffs already colored with the coal tar dye, designated Red No. 1.

John L. Harvey, deputy FDA commissioner, said "the additive is not an acute toxic substance" and "is only used in small amounts in foods, drugs and cosmetics."

Red No. 1 is not used in lipsticks, he said. The action to ban the color, however, recalled FDA action against other coal tar colors used in lipsticks. The FDA once ordered them banned but later permitted limited use of them after presumably safe levels had been established.

The FDA said the lowest amounts of the color which have been shown to produce liver damage in test animals "were many times greater than the amounts of this color that would be consumed in the human diet."

Tests to date, Harvey said, "did not provide a basis for concluding that the color could cause cancer."

Dr. Arnold J. Lehman, head of the FDA's pharmacology division, said some of the test animals developed malignant (cancerous) tumors. He emphasized, however, that scientists could not say definitely that the color is a cancer-inducing agent.

Suit for $25,000 Over Unlighted Cigar

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A smoker beaten up on a transit bus by a fellow passenger who couldn't stand his unlighted cigar has sued for $25,000.

William Hughes, 71, named John W. Suttles, 63, as the principal defendant, and the Kansas City Transit Co. as co-defendant.

Hughes, in suing the K.C.T. for $10,000, claims the bus driver could have prevented the altercation Sept. 7.

Suttles, fined $50 at the time, said at his peace disturbance trial that he lost his head.

"That was the foulest cigar I ever smelled," he told the court.

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, California (AP) — Test pilot Scott Crossfield opened wide the throttle of the United States' most powerful aircraft engine—and whispered: "Oh, baby."

It was the first time the X15 rocket ship's 57,000-pound thrust engine had been given its head. Crossfield kept the craft wide open for about four seconds before he eased back to half throttle. He had bolted to 1,800 m.p.h.

The flight Tuesday lasted nine minutes after the X15 was launched from its B52 mother ship at 45,000 feet.

Neighbors Don't Want Pony Around

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — A Shetland pony which has the run of the modern suburban home of Dr. Robert S. Darrow, had a horse laugh on angry Darrow neighbors today.

The neighbors had sought a temporary injunction to ban the 140-pound animal from the high class area until a deeds violation suit against the psychiatrist could be tried.

They were thwarted by Circuit Court Judge Jack F. White, who ruled he could not see where the pony would cause any irreparable damage to the neighborhood if left there until the trial.

Darrow said he bought the pony, "Copper Masterpiece," two months ago for his four children, aged from 22 months to 11 years.

Darrow told the judge the pony, which stands 32 inches high and is six months old, is a household pet.

He said the animal has the run of their five-bedroom home, sometimes sleeps in the house and eats at the table with his children, and is taken for Sunday drives in the family car.

Darrow was taken to court by his neighbors for an alleged violation of a clause which states no pigs, cattle, poultry or other livestock may be kept without consent of a neighborhood association.

Holdup Man Makes Off With Food and Cash

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A hungry holdup man with a pistol ordered a housewife to prepare him food and held her and her husband and a visitor hostage while he ate Tuesday night.

The shabbily dressed man sneaked up on the Alfred Petersons at their rural home south of Kansas City. Holding a pistol on them, he told Mrs. Peterson to make an egg sandwich and pour him several glasses of milk. The Petersons are in their 70s.

When a visitor, George G. Hanson, 78, came to the door, the gunman forced him to face the wall along with the Petersons.

He tied up the two men with light cord, locked all three hostages on the second floor, made his getaway in Hanson's car, taking $43 in cash and a watch.

Facing the wall, the hostages got only fleeting glimpses of his face. Once when Hanson tried to look at him, the gunman fired a warning shot into the wall.

Farris Sparks Locals

Gremlins Take PBCAA Game

The Sacred Heart Gremlins, stalling the ball in the final minutes of a PBCAA conference contest in Sedalia Tuesday night, squeezed past Cole Camp 50-47 for their second victory of the season. They have lost four games thus far.

In the volleyball game, described as dull by Jackie Treece, Sacred Heart's reporter, the locals were ousted 21-13 by Cole Camp. Sedalia at one point lost two points because of failure to rotate positions. Sharon Grother led Cole Camp's scoring with eight points, while Betty Stohr was high for HS with 13.

With Cole Camp leading in the middle of the third quarter of the basketball game, J. R. Farris connected for three consecutive baskets, bringing Sacred Heart within three points of Cole Camp.

Then, in the final 20 seconds of the third quarter, Farris again connected to tie the score, 36-36. Wayne Johnson stole the ball from Cole Camp, shot and connected, but the buzzer had sounded, voiding the point.

Sacred Heart sophomore Leonard Butler scored the first two points in the fourth quarter to put the locals in the lead. With two minutes left to play, the Gremlins were five points ahead—enough to allow one more Cole Camp basket and still win. On her notes, Miss Treece, overcome by enthusiasm, wrote "Hold the Lead Sacred Heart!"

Score by quarters:
Sacred Heart 12 7 17 14—50
Cole Camp 10 15 11 11—47

Who Stated Grid Picks Are Tough?

NEW YORK (AP)—Where's the guy who said this picking business was so tough?

Thanks to another gent, the one who invented the two-point conversion and the four-leaf clover, last week's nonsense turned up a 37-43 record for an .822 pace that boosted Coach Claassen's season mathematics to 355-126, a hefty 738 per cent.

The law of averages is just itching to catch up after all those blind stabs, so let's start from the top:

Army over Navy—Cadets' Blanda and Eckert can pass; favored Middies' Bellino can run. That makes it 2 to 1. Victory in air power in this nationally televised Saturday sizzler from Philadelphia.

Texas over Texas A & M—The week's other TV offering, Thanksgiving in Texas. The Longhorns are no turkeys.

Alabama over Auburn—The Bear (Bryant) is primed for Tiger Saturday. No Ed Dyer, no Auburn offense.

Florida over Miami—This one usually winds up 10-7. Florida the state champ after Saturday night.

Notre Dame over Southern California—Even Irishmen have tempers, especially after eight straight losses. They'll show Saturday.

Mississippi over Mississippi State—Last-ditch Rebel bid for No. 1 ranking.

Thursdays

Denver over Colorado State U., Penn over Cornell, VMI over VPI, Mississippi Southern over Chattanooga, Wichita over West Texas State, William and Mary over Richmond.

In a "B" game, Versailles defeated California, 28-24; Washburn was top scorer for Versailles with 7, while Strother led California with 12.

Panthers Win Third Cage Game

Coach Dwight Hensley's Knob Noster Panthers trounced the Concordia Orioles, 42-36, in a game played at Knob Noster Tuesday night. The Panthers are now 3-0 for the season.

In the "B" game, Knob Noster lost a heart-breaker to the visitors, 28-27, with Henderson, Patrick and Rhinehard all scoring seven points. High for Concordia was Flandermeyer with 12.

The Panthers were behind throughout the game—until the last two minutes and 17 seconds when Joe Sebastian broke a 32-32 deadlock with a field goal. After that, Knob Noster's determination kept the score safely out of Oriole reach.

The Panthers, relying on several defensive patterns, trailed by one point, 30-29, at half time. However, a 13-point fourth period cinched it.

Stover squeaked past Climax Springs, 49-47, Tuesday in a non-conference game which gave Stover a 2-1 season record. Leading throughout the game, Stover, however, ran into slight difficulty toward the final stages of the game when Larry Shackelford, leading scorer for the evening, fouled out.

In the "B" game, Climax Springs dropped Stover 33-22, depending on the 11-point attack of Boston. High for Stover was Raines with eight points.

Stover plays Tipton in the Tri-County Conference tournament next Tuesday.

An elimination tournament, first here this season, will be held next

Bob Orton Tuesday night when pro wrestlers return to Convention Hall for their bi-monthly warfare.

California Top In Grid Games

The Tri-County Football Conference has ended and California High School emerged the conference champion with a record of 5-0, but were pushed by Versailles with a 4-1 record.

The Pinto's defeated Versailles by 42-7 to move the challengers down into the second spot. Through the season the closest score in the conference for California was against Camdenton when they won 14-7.

Camdenton finished third, 3-2; Eldon fourth, 2-3; Osage fifth with a 1-4 record and Tipton in the cellar with 0-5.

The over-all record for the champions for the season was 8-0 and seven of the players made the All-Conference team with three being placed among the honorable mention.

Honorable mention players were Larry Lowe, end; Gary Berry, end and tackle; and Kenny Burlingame, tackle.

The successful coach was Bob Fletcher with Dan Williams, his assistant.

The tournament, which always produces some fast, wild action, takes on extra significance this time because the eight contestants involved will be shooting not only for area supremacy but also for a chance to meet world champion Pat O'Connor at a later date. O'Connor has agreed to defend his crown against the winner of the event here as soon as he can make arrangements.

An extra incentive of course, will be the top purse of $300 to go to the winner. And since the pros are in the business to make a living it's sure every one of them will go all out to take home a check of that size.

The eight wrestlers involved are Lee Henning, Sonny Myers, Bob Orton, Taro Myaki, Mike Paidousis, Stan Stasiak, Thor Hagen and Jack O'Reilly. It will take seven matches to declare a final winner. Pairings for the first four events, all one-fall affairs, will be made at the arena.

Henning, Myers, Orton and Hagen are expected to be the strongest candidates in the field. All are veteran campaigners, able to match any wrestler in the country hold for hold.

Henning just last week ascended the central States title throne with a decisive victory over Mike Paidousis. It was a return for Henning to the role of kingpin among Mo-Kan area matmen. Last season he had held the crown for seven months before losing it to Hagen.

Eisenhower Administration Has Problem in Gold Supply

Editor's Note—Secretary of the Treasury Robert B. Anderson is in Europe this week, seeking foreign help in stemming the heavy drain on the U. S. gold stockpile. This is one of a series of steps taken in an effort to solve a worrisome international problem. Other steps, present and potential, are discussed in this last of three articles by Frank Cormier from his experience as AP Treasury Department reporter and financial writer.

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—For more than a year, the Eisenhower administration has been fussing around the edges of the gold problem. Now it is getting down to brass tacks.

Why the sudden emphasis on emergency action when Uncle Sam still owns $18 billion of gold—about half of the free world's total supply?

It's largely a matter of arithmetic.

First of all, $11.5 of Uncle Sam's gold is tied up by law. It can't leave the country because it backs up part of the U. S. money supply.

That leaves $6.5 billion of gold to meet foreign demand—the demand which the United States must satisfy at all times if the dollar is to remain "as good as gold."

Since Oct. 1, foreign nations have been buying gold at an annual rate of more than $5 billion.

Obviously, Uncle Sam's gold stockpile would run dry in a little more than a year if buying on that scale continued.

To guard against such a development, the Eisenhower administration has invoked controversial new policies which have two primary objectives:

1. To dispel any foreign uncertainty about the dollar by demonstrating that this country will do whatever is necessary to make sure the gold stockpile doesn't run out.

2. To reduce the deficit in the U. S. balance of payments. It is this deficit—$3.8 billion last year—which gives foreigners the money with which to buy American gold. If there were no deficit, there would be no gold problem.

Critics say something must be done to reduce, and eventually it's a question of how to approach the task.

The deficit can be pared either by spending fewer dollars abroad or by collecting more dollars from foreigners.

The best way to collect more dollars is to sell more goods and services in foreign trade. Exports in 1959 brought in $22.5 billion. And the administration's first thought, a year ago, was to boost exports in 1960. Exports have advanced sharply since then but eliminate, the payments deficit, they still fall far short of eliminating the deficit.

Many people doubt that a similar export increase can be achieved next year, particularly if Europe's boom levels off.

Another item on the plus side in 1959 was the repayment of $1 billion in government loans by other nations. These repayments are made according to regular schedules and not much can be done to increase them.

In 1959, foreign visitors spent $900 million in the United States. The government is trying to promote the "visit U.S.A." idea.

Finally, foreigners in 1959 invested $500 million in the United States on a long-term basis. It's questionable whether the U. S. economy is growing fast enough at present to warrant much of an increase.

There you have the major items which work to reduce the payments deficit. There's room for improvement all along the line here—but you can't throw a switch and expect dramatic results.

On the deficit side, the biggest item in 1959 was the $18.8 billion which Americans spent to import civilian goods and services. One way to reduce the deficit would be to restrict imports through quotas or higher tariffs. However, that would inspire retaliation against U. S. exports. The government has done nothing in this area.

The next largest item last year was $3.3 billion in government loans and nonmilitary foreign aid. Here there are at least three possible courses of action:

1. Eliminate or reduce the aid and loan programs.
2. Insist that those who receive aid or loan dollars spend them in the United States whenever possible.

3. Urge other nations to bear part of the aid burden.

President Eisenhower has decided that the second and third alternatives are necessary.

The next category is overseas spending under military programs—a $3.1 billion item last year.

In this area, the administration has ordered the gradual return of more than half the 484,000 wives and children who accompany U. S. servicemen to overseas posts. Because these people spend millions overseas, the action is being taken despite its effect on morale.

Also, the government will try to shift more military spending to the United States and persuade the Europeans to pay a larger share of European defense costs.

Two other deficit-reducing possibilities have so far been bypassed. Nothing has been done to reduce American private investment abroad or outlays by American tourists.

These, then, are the areas in which the government can act to reduce the deficit and stem the loss of gold.

Some say the administration has already done more than is necessary. Others believe more will have to be done in the future.

It's a debate which will continue in the months ahead; a debate on which the future of the dollar and the free world economy may depend.

Diana Dors Returns To Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Diana Dors is back for another swing at Hollywood, and this time she might stay.

Last time it was murder. She fell into a swimming pool, an ocean of sexpot publicity and two bad pictures. It was enough to drown any career.

But the swinging Dors has rebounded and is back playing not in one, but two topflight movies at once. She's Danny Kaye's love interest in "On the Double" and is Diana Dors in "Ladies' Man" with Jerry Lewis. The latter characterization is one she plays quite well.

So sanguine is her outlook that she and husband Richard Dawson are shopping for a house to buy so they can settle here.

"I don't say I'll stay here forever," she said. "Forever is a long time. But my husband and I are planning to stay as long as we can for several reasons.

"Mainly it is for our son, who is 7 months old. I want him to grow up in America, where there is so much more opportunity. Here, a boy can be anything—a shopkeeper's son can be president.

"There isn't much opportunity in England. It's a closed shop, really. And England is not a very healthy place to raise children."

Such remarks aren't calculated to enthrall the folks back home, but Diana is prone to speak her mind. She had some rather pointed things to say about her Hollywood career No. 1.

"The publicity was terrible," she said. "It was run by a man who didn't know what he was doing. From the moment I stepped off the boat I was compared to Marilyn Monroe. It was ridiculous we're not the least bit alike."

She couldn't run away from the comparison, nor could she escape the films she was handed at RKO.

"Abysmal," she termed them. "I was expected to carry the whole load myself. They didn't give me any stars." (attn: George Gobel and Rod Steiger.)

She left $250,000 richer, but with no artistic triumphs to her name. She noted wryly that RKO went out of business shortly afterward.

Science At Work

Age Increases Intelligence Purdue Professor Concludes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bright older men, a very bright robot and what makes glowing fish bright are subjects this week for science at work:

In Favor of Age
The bright young men are not as bright as they will be when they are bright older men.

The scientist who reported this,

Dr. William A. Owen of Purdue University, checked the mental ability of 127 men against their U. S. Army intelligence scores in 1919. They proved brighter on the average by 70 per cent than their old scores.

That was in 1950. Now Dr. Owen has embarked on another study of the same men—to see how they score now and how their life patterns were influenced by their mental ability.

The Face is Familiar

A new robot that will be able to recognize friends from strangers is being fashioned by British scientists. They hope to make it able to talk in electronic squeaks, to see, read and write.

The machine will have an eye of 100 photoelectric cells, its brain will have 4,000 cells. University of London researchers are trying to equip it with the ability to distinguish important problems from unimportant ones. They expect to have it operating in about a year.

A Slight Delay

How well we do a job appears to depend on how closely our minds check the work while we are doing it.

Psychologists set volunteers to some simple writing chores, tracing figures and writing simple words. The volunteers watched their hands at work in a television monitor. By using a TV tape recorder, the psychologists were able to delay by a fraction of a second the subject's impression of what he was doing.

With the delay the figure tracings became wildly marked by scribbling and the simple words were illegible or misspelled.

Glimmer

Crystals of the stuff that makes fireflies and luminous fish glow in the dark have been extracted from a South Pacific fish. The Japanese call it kumogaki. U. S. and Japanese scientists had to dissect more than 4,000 luminous organs from fish before they had enough of the material to isolate a crystal. It was the third time a chemically pure, luminescent substance had been isolated, the first two times from fireflies.

For Swimming Only

The plants in your garden may look longingly at the water in your swimming pool when the summer sun gets hot, but it's a pool of poison for them.

Chlorine added to the swimming water to kill bacteria and algae causes a continuous build-up of salt. University of California experts report. If the salty water gets to plant roots, it stunts growth, burns foliage and may kill the plant.

A splash deck and curb around the pool will protect plants against dripping, splashing bathers.

Quietness Allows Skunk's Departure

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A noise in the living room awakened the W. C. Roy family one morning recently.
"When we went to see what the trouble was we met a skunk," Roy said.
Roy quietly opened all windows and doors and went back to sleep.
The skunk departed peacefully and Roy wasted no time in patching the hole in his porch left when he moved a washing machine.

TV Stunt Man Given Damages In Kite Crash

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A jury has awarded $135,000 damages to a man who said he was injured in the crash of a kite he was riding in a television stunt.
Alphonso Woodall, 37, of Cleveland, Ohio, said he was pulled too fast by a car towing him on his 13-by-10-foot kite and crashed from 75 feet.
The injuries—suffered March 25, 1959—barred him from ever flying again, Woodall testified Tuesday. He was working for the TV show "You Asked For It" at the time.
Defendants were Wayne Steffner Productions Inc. and four individuals. They filed a motion asking the judge to set aside the verdict and make his own judgment.

Cooking Turkey Is Easy, Real Art In The Carving

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Cooking the Thanksgiving turkey is easy. Carving it—as everyone knows—is the real art.

When the family has a turkey dinner in a restaurant, everything goes according to Boyle. Everyone takes the portion dished out to him without complaint, and no one questions the chef's impartiality, judgment or skill.

But when the family has a turkey dinner at home, chaos and rebellion—murmured or shouted—reign from the moment the bird arrives on the table.

The one who reluctantly agrees to do the carving becomes the loneliest human being in the world.

He is one who stands in crisis,

Ike, Mamie Having Quiet Thanksgiving

WASHINGTON (AP) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower will observe the last Thanksgiving of their administration with a quiet turkey dinner alone in the White House.

They haven't often stayed at the White House for the traditional American holiday—and the period has its reminders of Eisenhower's illnesses in office.

The Eisenhower grandchildren and the president's son, John, and daughter-in-law, Barbara, who usually join in the family party, will have their own turkey dinner at their Gettysburg home this time.

Mrs. Eisenhower's secretary, Mary Jane McCaffree, said no guests are expected to join the President and his wife for the traditional feast.

Mrs. Eisenhower has big social preparations under way for the day after Thanksgiving. She has invited 500 guests to the double debut of her young nieces, Mamie and Ellen Moore.

The President, who has been golfing at Augusta, Ga., and shooting quail near Albany, Ga., returns to the White House today.

Since the Eisenhowers moved into the White House in 1953, they have stayed there only twice before for Thanksgiving.

The President seemed to like to take advantage of this holiday time to golf in Augusta, and he ate his turkey dinner with his family there in 1953, 1954 and 1958.

In 1955, he had only recently returned from Denver, where he suffered his heart attack, and was recuperating at Gettysburg during the Thanksgiving period.

The most dramatic Thanksgiving of all for the Eisenhowers probably came in 1957. Three days before, the President had been stricken with a slight stroke which raised new fears for his health.

On Thanksgiving Day, the President made a surprise appearance with his wife at National Presbyterian Church to attend services, publicly displaying his quick recovery.

Anti-Government Rioting Wounds Eight Persons

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Eight persons were wounded Monday night in anti-government riots in the western part of Caracas.

The riot appeared to be similar to more serious disturbances in the center of Caracas last month. The government blamed the October riots on the extremist Revolutionary Left Movement and the Communists.

Rioters attacked police, who used tear gas to break up the demonstrations Monday. The anti-Communist National Action Movement had said in newspaper advertisements that Communists and followers of Cuba's Fidel Castro were planning new riots.

Philadelphia Trying Colored Trash Cans

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Would you rather drop your litter in a blue trash can, a green one, a yellow one or a pink one?

The streets department has begun a psychological experiment to find out by placing baskets painted in seven pastel colors—yellow, green, purple, tangerine, blue, lavender and pink.

Robert K. Farrand, chairman of the Philadelphia More Beautiful Committee's anti-litter section, said the baskets will be watched to see which attracts the most litter.

ringed by critics. He knows he is in a situation which he can't win. He is bound to give somebody too much light meat or too little dark meat. He endows with a section of drumstick one who passionately yearned for a wing.

His technique is also bound to come under adverse scrutiny. Someone suggests, "Don't 'you think you'd better—?' and another adds, "If I were you, I'd start—"

Here are some types of turkey carvers you've probably seen yourself at family Thanksgiving Day dinners:

1. The Poor Workman—He always begins by blaming his tools. "This knife isn't sharp enough," he says, "and this knife has too long a blade. This knife doesn't have enough tensile strength. This knife doesn't—"

2. The Brusque Matriarch—"Oh, give me that knife before you cut yourself," she says as her hapless husband makes a first tentative thrust. She slices and serves with bold confidence, knowing the guests cannot cavil too loudly at the cook.

3. The Malicious Prankster — He solicitously inquires from each guest what part of the turkey he likes best—then gives him something else. This gagster enjoys his little joke, but next Thanksgiving he'll be eating somewhere else.

4. The Cautious Husband—"My dear, you do the honors," he says, handing the knife to his mother-in-law, and knowing then he is safe from all further blame. This guy is the kind of diplomat the United Nations needs.

5. The Showman—He tells a few wisecracks, does a soft shoe dance around the table, then wildly waving the knife like Cyrano de Bergerac dueling against a dozen, he charges against the turkey—and it slides off on the floor. Exit actor.

6. The Artful Host—He invites a brain surgeon as guest, plies him with three quick martinis, then, when the turkey is ready, extends the knife and says, "Okay doc, the patient is ready."

In any case, whoever he is, the carver is the real hero of any family Thanksgiving feast. He is the one who always gets the bird.

NATO Countries Study Plan For European MIT

PARIS (AP) — Legislators from NATO countries are examining a plan for a center of research and practical science in Western Europe comparable with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in the United States.

European members of NATO would be asked to pool their financial resources, trained manpower and scholarly talents.

The proposal highlighted a report to the annual NATO parliamentary conference from its scientific committee. The report, written by U. S. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., will be discussed in plenary session later this week.

The 200 conference members are expected to ask the NATO council, which holds its annual meeting here next month, to initiate preliminary studies for such an institute as quickly as possible.

Mae West Has No Exclusive Right to Title

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mae West does not have exclusive right to the name Diamond Lil, says the California District Court of Appeal.

The court held Tuesday that it was not unfair competition when Marie Lind was billed as the one and only Diamond Lil at a San Francisco night spot. Miss West had sued for $50,000 damages and asked an injunction to break up the act.

Presiding Justice Herbert C. Kaufman wrote in the court decision that never has Miss West been publicized solely as Diamond Lil and that she has also been known as the baby vamp, siren of the screen, the screen's bad girl and the original Brinkley girl.

The judge said also there was no evidence that Miss Lind imitated Miss West.

That settles it, unless Mae wants to come up and see the California Supreme Court sometime.

Runaway Heiress Is Taken Off Register

NEW YORK (AP)—Runaway heiress Gamble Benedict has been dropped from the new edition of the Social Register.

But her grandmother, Mrs. Harper Benedict, who used every possible legal means in an unsuccessful attempt to keep Gamble from marrying a Roman-born Andre Porumbescu, still is in the 1961 Who's Who of Society, out Tuesday.

English Not Getting Fair Share Scotch

LONDON (AP)—Noble peers in the House of Lords complained bitterly that racial distinction is robbing Englishmen of their fair share of Scotch whiskey.

They said a new weights and measures bill now before Parliament does little to correct the injustice under which an Englishman in London gets less scotch for his money than a Scotsman in Scotland.

"A single scotch is nothing more than a dirty glass," declared Lord Dundee, a Scot in debate Tuesday. "Anyone who, after this bill takes effect, goes to a London restaurant and orders a double scotch will know he is entitled to one-third of a gill, which is only two-thirds of what he will get in Scotland."

A gill is a quaint old English equivalent for 1-12 of a pint.

For that much of the fine old mellow the Londoner has to pay 4 shillings 6 pence—63 cents.

Dundee orated: "The depreciation of the lira by the Italians and the liure (franc) by the French is nothing compared with the depreciation of the measure of scotch whisky by the English."

But at least, said Dundee, the new law on what made up a measure of scotch meant the hard-done Englishman would get more in the future than he is getting now.

From Lord Morrison of Lambeth—born and bred cockney—came this plaintive outcry: "Why is it that London always gets the worst of things, whether it is the price of coal or whisky?"

Said Lord Dundee: "It is a kind of inverted class legislation."

Lord Alexander of Hillsborough said he had the answer: measures of scotch should be the same in London or Glasgow.

Loses Home But Finds Another

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Alvin the alligator, long the pride of Stead Air Force Base near here, has lost one home but found another.

Muzzled and stuffed into a sleeping bag, the 200-pound native of Florida was flown to Mather Air Force Base, Calif., for the William Land Zoo in Sacramento.

Alvin, 4, was brought to Stead two years ago for use in the reptile display. Thousands of pilots getting survival training were shown Alvin and how—if their plane crashed in alligator country—they could enjoy Alvin for dinner instead of the other way round.

"Everybody loved Alvin," said an officer at a brief farewell ceremony. "He was pampered and petted. But you can't get in the same room with him now."

TV Heroes Wardrobes A Problem

NEW YORK (AP)—The custom-tailored heroes of the TV action shows have wardrobe problems.

A red blooded, and two fisted, convertible-driving private investigator has a minimum of two knock-down, over-the-desk battles in store for him in the course of a half-hour show and combat raises sartorial havoc.

Craig Stevens, pioneer and pacesetter among the sharply accounted gumshoes, once told me that his "Peter Gunn" wardrobe consisted of about 40 suits—and that each suit had a duplicate ready for use in the event a pocket was ripped or a lapel torn in the heat of battle.

Roy Rogers, a fancy dresser of another style, used to conduct his battles in a sort of uniform — plaid shirt, neckerchief, boots and breeches. To make certain that expensive retakes would never be necessary because he ran out of the distinctive shirts, he bought enough bolts of the material to keep him supplied for 20 years.

There are probably times when Walter Brennan, who plays Grampa in "The Real McCoys," wishes he had been equally foresighted four years ago when he started working on the comedy series.

"That was 120 shows ago," Brennan recalled. "I just went over to the wardrobe department and got myself a pair of old bib overalls, an old blue chambray shirt and an old hat. The hat was too small, so I pulled the brim down all around."

"Then for my dress-up suit, I picked one of a dark hard worsted with a stripe in it. It's about a size or two too big for me—it's six or eight inches too big in the waist so I hold the pants up with suspenders. But that's what I wanted: if you want to look older, just wear clothes that are too big for you; if you want to look smaller, pick a dark color."

Obviously Brennan wasn't expecting "The Real McCoys" to

Defeated Democrats Offer Recount Help

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Three defeated Democratic candidates offered Tuesday to serve as recount consultants for election losers who think they were "robbed by the voters."

The tongue-in-cheek U. S. Re-count Corporation of America was set up by James P. Seidensticker Jr. and Andrew Jacobs Jr., defeated Indianapolis candidates for the legislature, and William P. Jones of Franklin, defeated for circuit judge.

They said their organization will try to popularize the slogan, "The reason we sobbed was we wuz robbed."

turn into a TV perennial. Now, it turns out, the suit, impossible to replace or duplicate, has become one of Grampa's trademarks.

The other day Brennan made an abrupt movement and spilled coffee down the front of his suit. They had to hold up shooting while the stain was carefully removed and the suit dried.

When the cast was shooting a sequence beside a ship in San Diego harbor, the producer was so afraid the suit would be drenched in a dock scene, he insisted on using a double and shooting the potentially damaging sequence from a distance.

"It doesn't matter how beat up the overalls get," said Brennan, "and I do have a second hat for emergencies. But I don't know what we'll do about the suit. Maybe the writers could do an episode explaining how I get another one—and next time I'll have a replacement."

Fear Year-end Dividends Will Be Less Than In Past

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The days of extra Christmas cheer for stockholders are at hand. And some fear year-end dividends will be neither as plentiful nor as big this year as last.

But they are starting to trickle out from the board of directors' rooms, along with a heartening quota of increased dividends in spite of the supposed business gloom.

In recent days Du Pont has announced it will tuck a year-end dividend into its stockholders' stockings. It won't be as hefty as last year but payments for the year as a whole will come to $6.75 against 1960's total of $7 a share.

Christiana Securities, a holding company investing largely in Du Pont stock, will pay its share owners a total of $500 this year, against $525 a share a year ago.

Stockholders with less costly issues, and smaller returns, aren't being entirely forgotten. Year-end dividends in the last few days have been voted by Central Steel & Wire, Youngstown Steel Door and Time, Inc.

Increased dividends are helping the morale of many stockholders, within the last week or so, directors of 17 companies have increased the regular dividend payments, compared to four who have cut them.

One of the latest to raise the ante is the Martin Co., which upped the common stock dividend to 50 from 40 cents a share. The directors of the missiles, electronics and nuclear enterprise also approved a two-for-one stock split.

Extra or special dividends are also flowing out in good numbers. These aren't year-end payments. But many stockholders who may have been missing a regular quarterly check should find in the extras still another reason for being thankful Thursday.

In the last eight days 51 companies have announced extra or special payments.

A sobering note in all this flow of good cheer—the number of increased dividends has been declining in each quarter of this year, and the number of decreased or omitted dividends has been rising.

In spite of this result of the squeeze on corporate profits, the Department of Commerce notes that in the first nine months of 1960 all cash dividends ran 5 per cent ahead of the previous year in the first quarter of 1960. By midyear the increase was down to 7.9 per cent, and by Sept. 30 it had skidded further to 7 per cent. But for the year as a whole it seems sure of setting a record.

Immunization Clinic Thursday Was Successful

Washington School held an immunization clinic Thursday afternoon, in the school auditorium, which was termed very successful.

Dr. J. W. Maunders was the physician in charge of the clinic, assisted by one of his office nurses, Mrs. Pat Belsha, and three registered nurses, Mrs. T. J. Norris, Mrs. Herbert Berlin and Mrs. J. R. Murrell. Assisting also were the following mothers: Mrs. B. J. Mecum, health and safety chairman, Mrs. James Dickman, Mrs. Loren Miner, Mrs. James Stevenson, Mrs. J. C. Frownfelter, Mrs. Morris Potter and Mrs. William Hiatt.

Each child's temperature was taken before any shots were given and 12 were sent back because they had more than 99 degree temperatures and seven children were absent. These will get their immunization at the next clinic.

A total of 72 went through the clinic—33 for smallpox vaccination, 41 for diphtheria-tetanus shots and 47 for polio shots.

The next clinic will be held Jan. 5, 1961.
